Rector's Message

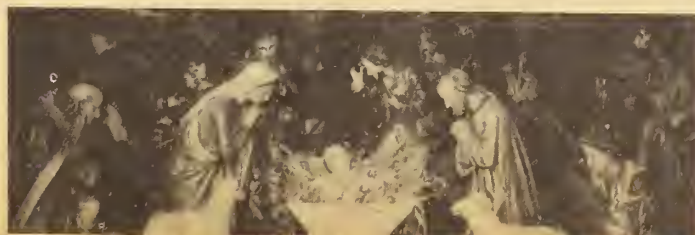

To the students of Loyola College:

Quite properly our fondest memories are recollections of Christmas day. We first became aware of Christmas as a day of great joy by parents pressing upon us the gifts of love. So they taught us to look forward to Christmas as the day which fulfilled our hopes and expectations of good things.

Now as adults we know that parental love and Christmas gifts are a great symbol—a reminder of the love of our Heavenly Father and the surpassing gift. He gave us in His own Son. When all of us were enemies of God and far from His love, He reunited us to Himself by making His Son one of us. Jesus was born that we might live with God forever: the star of Bethlehem is the dawn of our salvation. So the true meaning of Christmas is a harking back to that paramount fact of the reconciliation of us all with God and a looking forward to the perfect fulfillment of our expectations when we will get God for our very own and forever.

May the Christ Child fill you with all good things! And may you all image forth to your dear ones through the deeds of love, that love which the Christ Child brought down from Heaven and planted in the hearts of His own!

In Memoriam Archbishop Keough

The faculty and student body of Loyola College mourn the death of Most Rev. Francis P. Keough, Archbishop of Baltimore, on December 8, 1961. Archbishop Keough, the Apostle of the poor, was a noted churchman, and his death deprives Baltimore of a great shepherd and Loyola College of a devoted friend.

Archbishop Francis P. Keough

Editorial

Yule Reflections

Christmas is many things to many people. For most people, it is a time for celebration and for the display of such outward symbols of this celebration as pine trees and gayly colored bulbs, mistletoe, eggnog, reindeer . . . ad infinitum. For Christians, the primary significance of Christmas is that it has become a time of happiness and thanksgiving for the memory of the birth of Christ, mankind's Saviour. But for almost all people, Christmas has become a spirit which signifies more than the aforementioned things. It signifies the feeling of brotherhood and good-will between men.

The fact that his spirit of Christmas has become synonymous with the feast itself is a good-thing. The fact that this good-will and concern for the problems of others is so short-loved is not.

It seems to us that brotherhood and good-will are two feelings which are not well used when they are packed away each year with the Christmas ornaments and not retrieved until the time for decoration comes again. If this is done, then these two ideas become as artificial as the things with which they are packaged. In this respect, they come to lose much of the feeling with which they should be connected and become only the guises with which men bedeck themselves, much as they bedeck the holiday tree.

Brotherhood and good-will should be practiced throughout the year and should be sincerely borne. If this is done, men everywhere will learn to live in peace and Christmas will last the whole year through.

Congratulations

Very seldom do we congratulate anyone or any one specific organization. We, do, however, feel that congratulations are, at this time, in order! First of all to Jim Berger, President of the Green and Grey Club. Under the leadership of Mr. Berger, the Loyola booster's club has become one of the best organizations on campus and is doing a fine job of promoting student interest in the activities of the school. In congratulating Mr. Berger, the Greyhound would also like to congratulate the members of the organization for their time and efforts in making signs and painting posters for the other organizations on Campus.

The entire student body is to be congratulated on the support that Georgetown, Western Maryland, and Hofstra games are indicative of a rebirth of student interest to the activities on campus. We would however like to remind the student body not to forget the winter sports and to attend the swimming meets and the wrestling matches.

The members of the Greyhound staff along with Fr. Conlin, our moderator, would like to take this opportunity to wish the students and the faculty of Loyola a very Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Year In Review

by James Burns

With this issue, THE GREYHOUND will have put to press its last edition for 1961. Thus, I would like to take this opportunity to review the events of the past year at Evergreen which have helped to make this year a memorable one in many respects.

Do you all remember last year's exams? Well, I guess you'd rather forget them. This was the first time that the exams were held over a seven day period and the idea met with great success. It was so popular, in fact, that many people took their exams twice!!!

Lefty Retires

Perhaps 1961 will best be remembered as the end of a tradition at Loyola. That tradition was a man and that man was Emil "Lefty" Reitz. For 23 years Lefty was coach of the Hound basketball team and in that time, he built Loyola into a respected team which won several championships and always gave an account of itself on the floor against any foe. Lefty has stepped down from this position to be followed by his protegee Nappy Doherty. However, Lefty still serves Loyola as its Athletic Director aside from coaching baseball and soccer.

In athletics, the Hounds were able to capture only one championship. The swimming team was the

The Watchdog

The dog pro tempore has but one word to say to the Junior Economics majors: crickets involved.

Notice the PR's carrying fruits around with them? I know that the training given them is supposed to bear fruit, but this is ridiculous!

They are really serious about senior parking only on Millbrook. Why, in just one day, the Dean sent to that Towson gas station: one Coca-Cola truck (10 ton), three tricycles, one motorcycle, one Army bus equipped with band, one fire-chief's car, with the grand finale of two tow trucks each trying to tow the other away!!!

During the play, "Caesar and Cleopatra," one of the actors noticed that his spear was bent. He quickly shoved it off stage, then pulled it back into view a few seconds later . . . completely repaired. How's that for efficient ordinance, Sarge? More fatalities from the same play: one entrance missed, one stone column upset, one bottle knocked over, one sword fight in the boys' dressing room, and one cat fight in the girls' dressing room. There were also countless pages of script edited out on the spot, unbeknownst to the other actors.

That reminds me, if anyone knows a Mr. Ernest O'Neill, tell him to get out of town before the Dean of Men sees him! Merry Twistmas!!

J. O. C.

one team able to capture the coveted gold trophy which Loyola teams have very successfully won in the past as the trophy case will attest. It was a hard fought contest down to the very last race, with many hotly contested judges' decisions, but the Hounds were victorious and by the slimmest of margins, one point.

New Building

This passing year also saw the addition of the Engineering-Physics Building to the campus where once the Senior Parking lot stood. Although as yet not completed, the five story building is well on the way, with the last floor just being added at the time of this issue. When it is completed, it will be a welcome addition to the existing college plant and will enhance the prestige of the school.

Last May, Loyola was introduced to a new source of student activity and entertainment. Under the name of Loyola Day, the student body, competing for class and individual honors, fought each other doggedly producing a day of sheer enjoyment for all. This inaugural effort was a fine way to instill class participation and school spirit.

Faculty Changes

With the arrival of the present school year, several faculty changes were evident. Six former members of the faculty departed for various reasons. Among those bidding farewell to Evergreen were Colonel Kadick, Captain Lawrence, Father Davish, Dr. and Mrs. Wilbur, and Mr. Christ. Four new faculty members were added to fill these vacancies. These were Mr. O'Donovan, Lt. Colonel Dunn, Mr. Hoegberg, and Mr. Johnson, who are now well known on the campus.

These have been just some of the highlights which occurred at Evergreen during the past year, and it is hoped that you enjoyed them.

Xmas Presents

This year we have revived the Greyhound tradition of giving presents to various members of the faculty. From Santa Claus to:

1. Dr. Boyle--An autographed picture of Senator John Marshall Butler shaking hands with Barry Goldwater and a GOP pin.
2. Mr. Carton--The average cricket and a new deck.
3. Fr. Conlin--A ticket to see Fr. Beatty and a case of Metrecal.
4. Dr. Kaltenbach--The hegemony of the Greek states and a new suit.
5. Fr. Lavin--A four year scholarship to the Rabbinical Seminary.
6. Fr. D'In villier--Inspiration.
7. Fr. Bourbon--A meter-maid's uniform and a pack of tickets.
8. Fr. Higgins--A new book entitled "The End Justifies the Means."

Once again this year, a debate has raged in the United Nations over the proposal of admitting Red China to that body. As you may know, the delegation from the small island of Formosa holds the recognition as the legitimate representative of China. It is the contention of the Soviet Bloc that the continued seating of the Formosan Ambassador is illegal. They claim that this actually does not represent the 625 million citizens of the Peoples' Republic of China (Red China), but instead only represents the people of Formosa. The Nationalists Chinese report that although the U.N. Ambassador is sent from Formosa, he actually does represent the mainland people because the Formosan government, called the Republic of China, is the only legal government of China in existence.

The battle, therefore, seems to hinge on which government, the one based on Formosa or the one that occupies the Mainland, is the legal Chinese government and has the right to send an ambassador to the U.N.

The U.S. attitude is following its traditional stand of upholding the Formosan cause. It is the opinion of this writer that both the U.S. government and the U.N. are correct in their decisions, and that they should not allow their stand to be altered, no matter what pressures are placed on them.

As was mentioned, the question is one of legality; it is not one of numbers. Although the Formosan regime is based on an island of 9 million people, it is not automatically invalid just because its opponent happens to be based on the Mainland of China. Because of the isolation, it is probable that the Nationalist representative does not actually "represent" all of the citizens of China proper. But the Red Chinese government also is not the representative of the people. It is a Russian clique that has enslaved the people of China, and should not be seated at the U.N.

STICKS AND STONES

That mysterious phenomenon known as the Christmas spirit is permeating into the tiniest cracks and crevices of the Loyola College campus--including the hard, black heart of the hurler of "Sticks and Stones," G.P.M. And so in this week's column, the last before the holidays and the last of 1961, a reversal of form is in order. Consequently, everyone mentioned in this week's column will be praised--even the Jesuits.

A long-standing opinion of many was that the Jesuits merely masqueraded as a Catholic religious order while in reality they practiced their own mysterious, occult rite, subject or no ecclesiastical authority save their own. However, their generous gesture in granting yesterday's holiday proves that this was a popular misconception--unless even the Jesuits have an abundance of the Christmas spirit.

In all seriousness, though, congratulations and thanks are in order to several groups.

Thanks again to the Student Council for obtaining the extension of the Christmas holidays, and thanks to the Administration for their co-operation and generosity in granting the extra two days.

Congratulations and thanks to the Student body for their support of the Fred Sturm game last Sunday. Roughly 600 tickets were sold at Loyola. That's almost three-fourths of the students who purchased tickets for this worthy cause.

Finally, congratulations to all those students who have given freely

A Word from Bird

Outward Bound by Sutton Vanewas presented by the Merre Masquers of Notre Dame of Maryland. All of the male parts were played by Loyola men. Those Loyola students were Ed Slawski, Ed Conery, Paul Montgomery, Rich Lawrence, and Frank Moritz.

As usual, this play was poorly attended. It doesn't seem fair to the cast who gave so much of their time and effort to put on a good show for such a few people. The only compensation that these actors and actresses get is your interest in the plays in which they act. Your interest is shown by your attendance. Tonight, Mount Saint Agnes is putting on Pygmalion by George Bernard Shaw. Let's all go and show our support for this play!

Well, this week a Freshman finally became an official "Bird" watcher. He is Walter Miles. The other two official "Bird" watchers for this week are Juniors--Jim Judge and Pete Genovese.

Hounds To Host Trio Of Rivals

Although winning only one of their first three games, the Greyhound cagers are surprising many pessimists who predict another dismal winter at Evergreen.

Hoyas Earn Win

Boasting their finest team in years, Georgetown had to go all out in posting a 91-73 victory over the Hounds at Evergreen on Dec. 2nd.

With sheer hustle and determination, freshman mentor Nap Doherty's quint kept the game close until superior height and experience began to take its toll late in the first half.

Brilliant defensive play and long set-shooting made 5'6" Charlie O'Donnell the game's outstanding player. Soph Alex Cummings contributed 18 points to the Hound cause, mostly on left-handed jump shots.

Hounds Win Foul Fest

Rebounding from their opening loss, the Hounds combined a blistering offense with a tight defense to defeat Conference foe Western Maryland, 84-77 at Westminster on Dec. 6th.

In a game marred by a total of 81 fouls, Loyola hit on a torrid 45% of its shots for its first win. Steve Bogusky led a well-balanced attack with 17 points. He was followed by Alex Cummings, Tony Torba, and Freshman Marty Maher, who hit for 16, 14, and 12 points respectively.

Loyola Bows To Hofstra

The Greyhounds ran into a strong defense as visiting Hofstra built up an 11 point half-time bulge at Evergreen last Saturday night.

An inspired Loyola team tightened up its own defense and rallied to within three points late in the 2nd half. However, Pat Flynn's 17 points failed to prevent a 52-44 loss to the visiting New York quint.

'B' - Basketball

by Phil Fierpont

The "B" Basketball players got their season off to a slow start by dropping two of their first three games. In the season's opener, Dec. 1, Nap Doherty's junior squad fell prey to first game inexperience as they lost to B.U. frosh, 69-56. Mike McCarthy and Jim Coyle were high men with 20 and 18 points. Casey and Glorioso led B.U.'s attack with 15 and 14 points each.

In their second outing on Dec. 7 the Hounds rebounded to romp over Eastern College, 99-58. Jim Coyle paced the Loyola attack as he fired in 27 points. Gene Lace and Stan Kyper collected 15 and 14 points respectively, as six Hounds hit for double figures. Elwood was Eastern's high man with 20.

The following night, the Hounds succumbed to the devastating Bullis Prep attack, 89-61. McCarthy led the loser with 19 markers.

Happy Hounds: Cagers O'Donnell, Bogusky and Torba have a busy night as Loyola downs Western Maryland 84-77.

Hound Cagers Post 1-2 Log

By Bernie Vondersmith

On Friday, December 29th and Saturday, December 30th, the Winter Sports Spectacular will take place on the Loyola College Campus. The Hound Hoopsters will play host to three other teams in the Loyola Invitational Tournament. The three teams include: Muhlenburg College of Allentown, Pa.; the University of Delaware, of Wilmington; and the French National Champions.

Mules Shoot Well

Ken Moyer, mentor of the Muhlenburg give, is in his third season as head coach of the Mules and is hoping to show an improvement over his last two squads. Moyer's top prospects this year are Chris Hiotis and Ken Hoffman who both had good scoring averages last season.

Cloud Could Burst

Coach Whiz Wisniewski of Delaware has four lettermen returning to his Blue Hen squad. With his top scorer coming back and with added height on his team, Wisniewski says optimistically: "This should be the best team I've coached." The lineup is headed by 6'6" Nate Cloud who combines strong rebounding with a 17 point scoring average.

The French National Champs are making a 10 game tour of the U.S. Being the champions of France, they should provide a first class entry.

Hounds Hope

The Hound hosts may be able to steal the show if their scorers can get together. In the season's first three contests, the Hounds have individually but not collectively shown their scoring ability. In their best efforts, Steve Bogusky has hit for 17 points, Charley O'Donnell 15, Alex Cummings 18, Tony Torba 13 and Pat Flynn 17. If these Hounds can combine their scoring forces, the Loyola point total will soar.

Hound Swimming Opener Here This Afternoon

This afternoon, at 4 p.m. the Hound Natators open their regular season against St. Peters of New Jersey in our pool. Loyola will be seeking a repeat performance of last year's encounter which the Hounds won by a score of 120 to 25. The swimmers are fresh from two scrimmage victories over Dickinson and John Hopkins. The team, led by Captain Vic Corbin, Marty Pilsch, Ken Friemuth and Al Kubelius, is largely the same team which posted a 10 and 1 record last year and went on to take the Conference title. Coach Bill Klarner is looking forward to another victorious season, despite the loss of Peter Powley and Charley Bree, two standout performers on last year's squad. Up and coming freshman, Tippy Cronin will also be missed for the first couple of weeks of the season. He is recovering from a recent emergency appendectomy. During the holidays, the swimmers will be working hard to get in top shape for the heavy dual meet schedule which resumes upon the return to school. The next contest after the holidays will be with V.M.I.

GREYHOUND SPORTS

Judging from the attendance at the Hound basketball games so far, it seems that all of the yelling about a lack of school spirit has done some good. Large crowds backed the Hounds in both of their home games. However, it was on an away court at Western Maryland that the real awakening of school spirit was in evidence. There the Hound rooters completely drowned out the Terror backers.

But let's not rest on our laurels. The Hound cagers still need your support, especially in the Invitational Tourney coming up. For the Tournament to be a success, a near-sellout of the gym is needed. Thus far, only 50 student tickets have been sold. The Athletic Department realizes that the students have been asked for money from many quarters of late. However, the Tourney tickets are inexpensive. Moreover, Lefty Reitz has extended the deadline for buying them at the student price until December 28th.

Let's see a little of that re-awakened school spirit. Get behind both the Team and the College and make this Tourney a success.

All Stars

Congratulations from the Greyhound to Hound soccer players Sam Amato, John Campbell, Denny Grabowski and Jim Kennedy. Sam was named to the all M-D second team and the all South third squad. Johnny was also named to the all South team. Denny and Jim were both chosen for the all M-D squad despite the fact that both were hampered by injuries.

Bowling Tourney Planned

With only two more weeks of league play remaining, Willie Winners continue to hold their two game lead over Willie Nemesis in the Bowling League. In recent play Willie Winners won three games from Sam & Friends, Willie Nemesis won two from the Woodchuckers and the Foul Line Five lost three to the Hi Fi's. Will Smuck bowled a 370 set for the highlight of the day. On December 27, the Guilford Lanes will sponsor a tournament for members of the Bowling League. It will be run on a handicap basis, and Guilford Lanes will award trophies to the winners. Charles Nemecek will be striving to gain the individual championship for the second consecutive year. Carl Cuneo and Will Smuck will be the chief contenders attempting to dislodge him.

Touch Football

There are four teams still in the running for the Intramural Football title. The Hamilton Reks and the Foul Baegals are undefeated, while the Dukes and 1.5's have suffered one setback. In games last week, the Dukes topped the Hotshots by an 18-12 margin, and the Debits lost to the 1.5's in a 6 to 0 match.

The Riflemen

This week, the 1st Intramural Freshmen Rifle Match was held. Three teams, consisting of ten freshmen candidates each, are participating. Firing concludes this morning. More of these matches are planned, including one between non-member freshmen and sophomores.

Meanwhile, the rifle team continues its winning ways by defeating Georgetown 1348-1343 to bring their record to three wins against one defeat. A cancelled match with Penn has been re-scheduled for March.
